Description:

It's 1911 in Pennsylvania coal country, and Corey must work at the mines to help support his family in this exciting historical novel. Corey is just eleven years old, but his family needs him to chip in. He's dropped out of school and works as a breaker boy picking out coal impurities from bins in the coalmines of Pennsylvania. But after skating accident nearly kills Corey, he begins having panic attacks and nightmares. Corey turns to Mrs. Chudzik, a strange and mysterious local recluse, for help. She's a trained doctor and Corey's overwhelming fear of tight spaces means he is jeopardizing his family's future. When there is a disaster at the mine, trapping his father and other miners, Corey knows it's time to face his fear. He and Mrs. Chudzik's hound, Hovi, must find the trapped miners and bring help. But how can he when the thought of being in the dark and enclosed space might be more than Corey can handle?

Have been a fan, of Joan Hiatt Harlow for years.....Loved loved loved, this book....it is so uplifting, and so hopeful! I read this as an adult reader. Joan Hiatt Harlow, is a magical, and gifted writer. She has a way to weave several stories into one, and to bring the stories together. The history is well researched, and true. She does her homework, and brings factual information into the dialogue. Corey, is a very real character, and he has real issues, having suffered a very real traumatic event. How he learns to cope, and rely upon the care and the comfort of a professional person who has issues of her own, and how they interact to help each other is a testimony to the loving care of neighbors and friends, and also of the need to embrace those who are different including immigrants, and others that may not seem to be initially welcome in society. The characters are very real and true.....and often we can pre judge others without getting to know them. Mrs. Chudzik was a bit scary initially, but the character development in the story is so intriguing and so real, that she becomes beloved.....and that is why the story is so hopeful. Also, the challenge of being a victim of PTSD, and how Corey overcomes this disability, is true to form, and very encouraging for anyone who has been a victim, and who has been bullied.....A MUST READ FOR ALL!!! Congratulations to Ms. Harlow for her wonderful weave of fact , fiction , and human nature, and character.....Thank you!! Please read this book, and enjoy it. I read this as an adult, I hope parents will embrace her books, they are truly character developing, for young adult readers!
